The Owners state they had made all arrangements for stopping this vessel for overhaul at Leith after discharging her present inward cargo. As this steamer, however, is employed in one of their regular trades and the vessel that was to relieve her sustained damage while leaving port recently, they have been obliged to despatch the "STETTIN" on another voyage or two. They add they will have the requisite inspection carried out at the earliest possible moment and that they will advise this Office when and where it will be carried out.
