Brest, Oct. 3.—Dutch steamer Johanna has run aground near the Armen Lighthouse and the French tug Iroise has gone out to render assistance. No one can be seen on board the stranded steamer, but it is reported that 25 men and two women have landed on the Ile de Sein, presumably in the vessel's own boats. Great waves are sweeping over the vessel.—Reuter.
Brest, Oct. 3.—Dutch steamer Johanna, Spain for Holland, cargo iron ore, is aground near Armen Lighthouse in a critical position. Crew and passengers saved and landed Ile de Sein.
Brest, Oct. 3.—Dutch steamer Johanna: Salvage steamer returned and reports vessel partly submerged at high water. Consider salvage impracticable.—Lloyd's Agent.
JOHANNA.—Brest, Oct. 3.—Fog, which has prevailed since yesterday afternoon, cleared at midday to-day, and the Dutch steamer Johanna could be seen on the rocks, completely out of water. Smoke was still issuing from the funnel, showing that the engine-room, which is situated aft, was not then full of water. The vessel cannot remain long in her present position, and will probably break up on the rocks. The master of the tug Iroise, which has returned here, regards the Johanna as lost. He reports that he found her lying among rocks, south of the Chaussée de Sein, not far from Armen light. The after part of the vessel was resting on the rocks, 10 metres out of water, while the forepart was submerged.—"L'Ouest Eclair."
